

The Bone and Joint Decade 2000-2010

INFOLETTER 43

October/November 2005

Dear Bone and Joint Decade supporting organisation and friend,

On behalf of the BJD Steering Committee I am pleased to report to you of the latest achievements in regard to the initiative.

Lars Lidgren, Chairman of the Steering Committee

The BJD 2005 Patient Advocacy & World Network Conference

Reporting from the 2005 World Network Conference held in Ottawa, Canada from 26-28 October, our final count shows that 150 musculoskeletal specialists -- both from the patient advocacy and the professional spheres -- from 45 countries around the world came together to begin the process of formulating Standards of Care for Musculoskeletal Health.

The BJD International Steering Committee (ISC) wishes to thank the members of the Canadian Network and all participants for their engaging and lively contributions to the panel discussions and brainstorming sessions. Dr Jim Waddell and his Canadian team did a great job to make the meetings successful. Over the span of four days, we heard many perspectives on important issues such as identifying risk factors for hip fractures, prevention strategies, coping with chronic pain, and road trauma reduction. There was no shortage of interaction as various outlooks from different parts of the world were presented and discussed.

This year's conference had a very special feature—for the first time ever a BJD International Patient Advocacy Meeting was held under the banner "Putting People First". Every continent was represented with more than 50 participants from 28 countries coming together to discuss advancing the role of patients in their own care, and in influencing public policy.

Coming Soon: BJD Patient Advocate Leaders (PALs) website

In response to countless requests during our recent International Patient Advocacy Meeting, we have decided to develop a BJD satellite website for patient advocates. This new website will provide a forum for exchange of ideas, programs, best practices among patient advocates and patient organizations involved in the Bone and Joint Decade and collaborations in musculoskeletal education, care, research. In addition, there will be educational material, useful tools and eventually a database of facts and figures most relevant to musculoskeletal issues.

If you would like to be involved in this exciting project, please contact Ben Horgan convenor@bjd.org.au or Amye Leong AmyeLeong@aol.com

E-Poster session

All NANs were asked prior to the conference to report on their yearly activities in an “electronic poster”. The e-Posters were printed and presented to the Network meeting. An evaluation committee consisting of Prof Mieke Hazes, Prof KM Chan and Prof Nic Walsh, members of the International Steering Committee, reviewed and evaluated all the e-Posters for the e-Poster Award.

The BJD ePoster Award recognises National Networks which conduct exceptional campaigns in the areas of public awareness, patient education, professional education, or advocacy. This year the tribute was given to three networks: Croatia, Finland and Japan. The Croatian Network received the top Award for a successful campaign to influence the improvement of the undergraduate medical curriculum at the Zagreb School of Medicine, and for conducting an extensive nation-wide event during Action Week.

Prof. Jadranka Morovic-Vergles, Secretary of the Croatian NAN received the ePoster award certificate on behalf of the Croatian NAN at the Gala Dinner on October 28, 2005 at the Fairmont Château Laurier.

and Prof Jadranka Morovic-Vergles*

The Finnish Network received recognition for several programmes initiated with the national health authority to improve patient access to care. And the Japanese National Action Network was recognized for a unique awareness campaign which harnessed the power of popular culture -- Manga, or Japanese Comics -- to deliver the message of bone and joint health to the younger generation. Congratulations to all three networks for their excellent work!

MUSCULOSKELETAL POLICY PROGRESS

Written Declaration on Rheumatic Diseases

A written declaration calling on EU decision-makers to recognise the extraordinary burden of rheumatic diseases, has been adopted as an official resolution of the European Parliament, after being signed by more than 380 Members from all EU Member States and political groups.

This broad cross-party initiative urges the European Commission and the Council to make rheumatic diseases, which currently affect more than 100 million people in Europe and cause severe damage to the EU country economies, a priority in the EU's 7th Research Framework Programme and its future health strategy. A lobbying campaign targeted to the MEPs, is being run by EULAR (scientific members and Social Leagues/patient groups), to have musculoskeletal disorders included as a major disease on the research agenda in the European Union's 7th Research Framework Programme.

A letter also has been sent to Margot Wallström, Vice President of the European Commission asking for her assistance in putting musculoskeletal diseases on the agenda of EU's 7th Research Framework program.

Dr Radko Komadina, NAN coordinator in Slovenia has confirmed that Mr. Janez Potocnik, European commissioner for science, will meet a BJD group in January 2006 to discuss reinforcement of research of musculoskeletal conditions.

NATIONAL ACTION NETWORK NEWS

AUSTRALIA: The Australian website is up and running and can be reached at www.bjd.org.au. For more information please contact Ben Horgan convenor@bjd.org.au

CANADA reports: The Bone and Joint Decade Canada was pleased to host representatives from more than 40 countries in Ottawa October 26-28, 2005 for the International Steering Committee and the Annual Meeting of the National Action Networks for the Bone and Joint Decade.

The meeting in Ottawa focused on four areas: osteoporosis and the prevention and treatment of hip fractures; prevention and treatment of chronic pain for musculoskeletal disease; musculoskeletal curriculum for physicians and other healthcare providers; and ongoing efforts to decrease injuries from road traffic trauma. Canadian patients, clinicians and researchers played a leading role in three of these four modules – Dave Hanley from the University of Calgary and Hans Kreder from the University of Toronto for the osteoporosis module; Jim Henry from McMaster for the pain module and Veronica Wadey a graduate of the University of Calgary Training Program currently in her 2nd year of fellowship training provided excellent information on Canadian needs for musculoskeletal curriculum.

The meeting was structured to provide ample opportunity for all people attending to participate in discussion groups to help formulate minimal acceptable guidelines and best practice guidelines for both osteoporosis and chronic pain management. The International Steering Committee has been charged with taking the information and recommendations put forth by these groups and developing from them international standards that will be endorsed by the Bone and Joint Decade.

There was considerable interest expressed in the meeting by the Canadian Institutes of Health Research and we were grateful that Alan Bernstein, Director of CIHR, was able to address our meeting. In addition, Ruth Collins-Nakai, President of the Canadian Medical Association, Ann Qualman, President of the Canadian Arthritis Patient Alliance, and Dave Williams, Canadian Astronaut, also addressed the meeting. We were visited by the Honourable Jim Peterson, Minister of Trade and the Honourable Carolyn Bennett, Minister of State (Public Health).

This meeting was generously supported by Abbott Laboratories, the Alberta Provincial CIHR Training Program in Bone and Joint Health, Alliance for the Canadian Arthritis Program, Amgen Canada, Biomet, Bone and Joint Decade International, Bristol-Myers Squibb, Canadian Arthritis Network, Canadian Chiropractic Association, Canadian Orthopaedic Association/Canadian Orthopaedic Foundation, Canadian Institutes of Health Research, Canadian Institute of Musculoskeletal Health and Arthritis, Canadian Institute of Gender and Health, Canadian Rheumatology Association, Health Canada, Hoffman-La Roche, Janssen Ortho, Johnson & Johnson, Juvent, MEDEC, Merck Frosst Canada, Ostek, Pfizer Canada, Proctor & Gamble / Sanofi-Aventis, Schering-Plough Canada, SERVIER Canada, Smith & Nephew, Stryker, Synthes, Wright Medical, Wyeth and Zimmer Canada.

Much planning and hard work went into making this conference a success. The Canadian team wishes to acknowledge the help and support received from members of the International Steering Committee.

The Canadian Summit on Standards for Arthritis Prevention and Care immediately followed the Bone and Joint Decade meeting. They aim to capitalize on this synergy between the BJD and the Arthritis Alliance to vigorously promote the agenda for bone and joint health in Canada including government sponsored prevention strategies, meaningful access to care, and a national long term strategy for improving the bone and joint health of Canadians.

The international guests were impressed with everything except the Ottawa weather – it was a very successful meeting and the Bone and Joint Decade efforts in Canada will be re-energized as a consequence of this experience. For more information please contact Dr James Waddell, waddellj@smh.toronto.on.ca.

HUNGARY: The 10th Jubilee Musculoskeletal Ultrasound Course of EULAR was held at Budapest between the 9th and 11th of September with the support of the Hungarian Bone and Joint Foundation and the Hungarian Association of Rheumatologists. The 60 participants from several European and overseas countries were tutored by 20 international experts of the field, 20 rheumatic patients – volunteered as models for the practical workshops.

In this introductory talk Géza Bálint, the National Co-ordinator of the Hungarian NAN, emphasised the role of ultrasound in early diagnosis of arthritis. Early diagnosis followed by early and effective treatment may contribute to achieving one goal of the Decade: decreasing the expected increase of the number of damaged joints by 25% during the Decade.

The first results of the Hungarian “No further fracture” program have been published. At the country hospital of Veszprém 347 female patients over the age of 50 were treated for different fractures. All these patients were admitted to the Osteoporosis Centre of the hospital, and screened for osteoporosis. Out of these 347 patients 79% were diagnosed having osteoporosis and 14% having osteopenia. Anti-osteoporotic treatment was initiated in all of the patients. For more information please contact Dr Géza Bálint, email: bjd@t-online.hu
