Please note Wednesday and Thursday 1 – 2 November in your calendar for this event, which will be held in conjunction with the 2006 BJD World Network Conference (2-4 November).

The targets for these messages are the media and the public affairs, as cornerstone in how advocates can directly influence public policy on bone and joint health.

INDIA: Coimbarore, the industrial capital of South India has been the focus of BJD India in recent times. The 1st National training program in Orthopedic surgery for General Practitioners organised by World Orthopaedic Concern in Coimbatore on 25th November 2005 was inaugurated by Prof. T K Shanmugasundaram, BJD Ambassador & Senior Orthopedic Surgeon. This training programme is aimed at creating greater awareness among GPs and sensitise them on various orthopaedic problems and the importance of early detection and cure. In India, as most countries, the GPs are the entry point to health care for majority of population. The patients take their word before going for advanced treatment and thus GPs play a vital role in guiding the patients to the care pathway.

Later in his brief to the press, Prof. T K Shanmugasundaram stated that societal illness of musculoskeletal diseases is all set to become the second costliest disease area and urged the government to make plans for the treatment and rehabilitation of patients suffering from musculoskeletal diseases.

The BJD CME held in Coimbatore on 3rd June 2006 received an excellent response. Separate sessions lasting for 2 hours each were held for the Gynaecologists and Orthopaedic Surgeons. Dr. K Mahendranath, Chairman, BJD-INDIA: NAN & Consultant Rheumatologist provided an overview of the aims & objectives of BJD – creating awareness & empowering patients were key targets.

An executive committee meeting of BJD-INDIA NAN was held on 4 June 2006 in Coimbatore. Dr. K Mahendranath chaired the session. Dr. A Chopra, National Secretary, presented the progress. 42 research proposals have been received by the Pune BJD-INDIA office since inception.

Prof. Dinesh Mohan (BJD Ambassador, New Delhi) proposed an endorsement of a document on "Compulsory wear of crash helmets in India" and provide wide circulation to regulatory, NGO & other concerned Govt. bodies which was accepted by all. Dr. V Rajamani, proposed a theme for the activity week in Oct this year "let us talk to children on bone & joints" which was accepted by all and the National Secretary was asked to make a national strategy for its implementation.

BJD India NAN got several new members and they have now 194 members (www.bjdindia.org)
